

BELGIANS CAPTURE 10,500 GERMAN PRISONERS

T. N. T. EXPLOSIONS CONTINUE ALL DAY

T. A. Gillespie & Co. Plant Near South Amboy, N. J., Wrecked—Explosions Continue as Fire Spreads—Few of the Dead Identified.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, Oct. 5.—With a new series of explosions which rocked the country side for miles around, the great conflagration at the munition loading plant of the T. A. Gillespie Co., at Morgan, N. J., twenty miles from New York, which may result in a death toll of over 100 persons, was still raging at noon today.

Estimates of the loss of life reach as high as 200 and reports of the number of injured are vague. No responsible person or any of the military authorities who have taken charge of the situation will attempt to deny or confirm the current casualty reports.

Fourteen bodies had been recovered up to noon, and scores of persons, still unaccounted for at that time, were believed to be dead in the ruins.

Martial law has been declared in the stricken area under the Commandant of the Department of the East.

The new series of explosions began at 10:15 a. m., and were heard within a radius of thirty miles of Morgan.

The terrific detonation was distinctly felt in New York city where the occupants of the city hall were thrown into confusion when five of the great doors were violently blown open.

Four explosions occurred between 10:10 and 10:30 a. m., the last more terrific than all the others.

Lieutenant William Kennel, military attaché at city hall here, said he was of the opinion that the new explosions were caused by additional unit buildings of the Morgan plant blowing up.

All reports received indicate that the entire "war" plant, which comprises over a hundred buildings valued at approximately $18,000,000, will be entirely destroyed.

Many transports and barges already loaded with munitions for the American overseas forces, were saved by the pre-devised precautions and plans made by the United States Coast Guard commandant in this district.

A state of terror exists today through a district within a radius of ten miles around Morgan. Men, women and children are fleeing and entire towns are being evacuated.

At noon today a woman of Metuchen, N. J., was reached on the telephone from New York. She said that at the 10:30 explosion, was so terrific that pictures and vases were sent crashing from the walls. At the time she was preparing to flee with her children to Elizabeth, N. J.

At a personal risk almost as great as on a battlefield, hundreds of heroic soldiers, sailors and plant guards are engaged in a desperate fight to save the Oliver and California munitions plants near that owned by the Gillespie company. Both plants are reported to be in grave danger.

Another terrific explosion occurred shortly before noon. It was felt in New York and points along Long Island.

The intermittent explosions this afternoon made it impossible to fight the continually advancing flames. Grave fears are felt for the Oliver and California plants of the Du Pont Powder Co., near Morgan. If these plants were to let go another great area would be devastated.

PEOPLE ORDERED TO EVACUATE PERTH AMBOY

Orders to evacuate Sayreville township, which includes Morgan, South Amboy and Perth Amboy, with an approximate aggregate population of 62,000 persons, were also issued by the military authorities. South Amboy is one mile from Morgan and Perth Amboy is three miles.

Vice-President Yates of the Gillespie Company, shortly after noon, said that 500 men in the building in which the first explosion occurred. He expressed a belief that not more than 40 of the 500 men were killed, but admitted that he was unable to make a positive statement.

The refugees arriving in downtown New York this afternoon from the evacuated towns of New Jersey made a scene paralleling the fate of the Belgians when they fled before the invading German hordes. Boatloads after boatloads of northern New Jersey and Tottenville, Staten Island civilians were unloaded at the Battery and taken under the care of the local Red Cross organizations who were prepared for their arrival with hot coffee and food.

Hazardous women with infants in their arms and other children huddled afraid close to them and clinging to their mothers' skirts bore mute evidence of the awful experiences they had been forced to undergo from the terrific explosions and the shell bombardment.

One refugee woman said that her home was brought down into a mass of broken lumber when one of the heaviest blasts let loose. She said only a miracle must have saved the life of herself and children.

EXPLOSION CAUSED BY PURE ACCIDENT

New York, Oct. 5.—"The explosion and fire which wrecked our plant at Morgan, N. J., was purely an accident," T. A. Gillespie, president of the T. A. Gillespie Shell Loading Co., said today in a statement.

"It was not due to carelessness on the part of anyone and there is no suspicion of German work," the statement continued. "There is no ground for the fear expressed over a large quantity of T. N. T. It is safely buried under a big hill far out of the danger zone."

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Oct. 4.—With a military censorship established the official toll of the terrific series of explosions which wrecked the munition loading plant of the T. A. Gillespie Loading Company, at Morgan, N. J., was today placed at eight known dead, over 100 missing and more than a hundred injured.

Army authorities who took over the fire-swept and shell-torn scene of disaster soon after the catastrophe occurred refused early today to give out any information pending an official statement later in the day. Telephone communication with South Amboy, near Morgan, has been interrupted. The unofficial casualty figures were received from the police of Perth Amboy.

Intermittent explosions of the wrecked munition buildings are continuing and fire is still raging in some of the buildings.

EVERYBODY ORDERED OUT OF TOTTEVILLE

Staten Island Town Bombarded by Shells and Embers From South Amboy T. N. T. Explosion—Property Loss $30,000,000.

New York, Oct. 5 (12:15 p. m.)—Explosions, the last one shortly after noon being the worst to date, continued today at Morgan, N. J., where the shell loading plant of the T. A. Gillespie & Co., blew up. It was estimated at the time this dispatch was written that the property damage now amounts to $30,000,000. No accurate list of the casualties has yet been made. Estimates vary all the way from fifty to two hundred dead and as many as 1,000 injured.

At noon today federal officials ordered the residents of Tottenville, Staten Island, out of that vicinity. Tottenville is just across the bay from Perth Amboy, which is near Morgan. All morning flying embers and bursting shells fell in Tottenville and it was decided to evacuate the town.

The panic stricken refugees started for New York city. They first had to cross Staten Island and then take ferries across the harbor.

The spirit of our Fighting Men is OUR SPIRIT

MORALE will win the war. American morale—that spirit that makes our men sing as they march, take their discomforts with a joke, meet every duty with their whole hearts, and fight like heroes.

Whether it is driving a truck, tending the old chow wagon, or fighting hand to hand in blood and mud, our boys meet it with American morale—indomitable spirit that is going to win the war.

No task too small, no sacrifice too great—that is the spirit of our boys. It is our spirit.

We shall save with a song in our hearts, smile at discomfort, fight waste and extravagance as they fight the Huns.

Morale—THEIR morale and OUR morale together will win the war. With such a spirit in the American army and the American people, our fighting men will be invincible.

In today's casualty list issued by the war department two Ulster county men are reported missing in action. They are Malvin Schoonmaker of Wawarsing, whose father is Myron H. Schoonmaker, and James Sisco, a son of Thomas Sisco, of East Kingston.

DAY'S WAR NEWS AT A GLANCE

American troops, in new attacks, are again advancing on a wide front on both sides of the Argonne forest. East of the forest (in the sector northwest of Verdun), the Americans have taken and passed Fleville, and now stand on high ground dominating the Kreimhilde line over a front of nearly twenty miles.

The Kreimhilde line is the chief German bulwark defending the lines of communication supplying the left flank and most of the center of the whole German army in France.

East of the Argonne the Americans have increased their total gain to about eight miles. West of the forest, in the Champagne district, the Americans have stormed St. Etienne and the woods to the north, advancing about six miles since Thursday morning.

With virtually all of the Argonne forest in their hands the Americans are now driving against the Vouziers-Laon railway. They were twenty miles west today.

New and important gains have been made by the French, British and Belgian armies also. The Belgians have lunged ahead nine miles on a 25 mile front, taking 10,500, while the British have advanced to a point only five miles away from the big German base at Lille.

Desperate resistance is being made by the Germans all along the battle front, but the counter thrusts are crushed as quickly as they are attempted.

Especially violent were the counter blows directed against the Americans, where Germany's crack troops were thrown into the struggle.

While the British keep up their pursuit of the fleeing Germans between the Belgian frontier and the Arras-Douai line, they are still hammering the Boches on the Cambrai-St. Quentin front where further progress was realized during the night.

Apparently the French have extended their lines northward, taking over part of the old British front northeast of St. Quentin. Attacks in that sector met with fine success late yesterday and during the night.

French pressure further south centered north of Rheims where a crossing of the Aisne canal was forced. The French have extended their lines six miles north of Rheims.

ITALIAN TREATY IN LOCAL CASE

Accident at Brown's Station Brings up Construction of Treaty With Italy—Appeal Argued on Thursday.

An interesting local case involving the construction of the treaty of the United States with Italy, was argued before the court of appeals at Albany on Thursday. It was that of Ernesta Calamari, the one time widow of Domenico Semproni, against Winston & Company. Semproni was a singularly intelligent Italian, foreman of a gang employed by the Winstons in the construction of the Ashokan dam at Brown's Station. As repeatedly appears in the reports of the New York city board of water supply, the bed of the Esopus is composed of a glacial moraine filled with boulders, the result of the erosion of the second glacial ice cap. In making the excavations for the foundation of the dam these boulders constantly were encountered. Unless the workmen digging down the bank were extremely careful they were apt to roll out, strike and injure them. Against this situation Semproni repeatedly was warned. He laughed at the warning, stating he would jump so that the boulder was not made, that could hit him. One day the unexpected to him happened. He was digging in a gravel bank, struck a boulder, was warned to work at its side. Instead of that he worked in front of it, with the result that he loosened the gravel, the boulder rolled over him and killed him.

Winston & Company, in common with the other contractors with the city of New York, had not taken out the insurance provided by the Workmen's Compensation Act, claiming that as the contract for the dam, dikes and aqueducts was let under a special legislative enactment requiring unit price bids, the legislature had not the power to impose an additional burden upon them; that as they employed about four thousand workmen, the insurance provided for by that act would prove ruinous. It was admitted there was no liability upon their part at common law for the reason that Semproni created the situation under which he worked, had violated the instructions and disregarded the warning given. The Consul of Italy to the United States, living at Albany, had himself appointed administrator of Semproni by Surrogate Gill. Through his counsel, at Albany, DuBois & McDermott, he took up the matter with the Winstons, who according to their custom when a man in their employ was killed, paid $1,000 to the consul for the benefit of the dead man's family, regardless of the fact whether they were legally liable to pay anything or not. It was this custom which led the Italians of northern Italy to seek employment with them. They paid to Dr. Baccelli, the consul at Albany, the $1,000, and the funeral expenses of Semproni.

Afterwards the mayor of the town in Italy from which Semproni came, asked the Consul of Italy in the city of New York to take up the matter with the workmen's compensation commission, which he did. This commission, without notice to the Winstons, heard the case, made an award against them of $7,000, and served a demand for payment. Judge Clearwater, for the Winstons, immediately applied to have the award set aside upon the ground that it was made without notice and without authority. The matter was then transferred to the present industrial commission, which gave a new hearing at the capitol at Albany, and reduced the award of the workmen's compensation commission to $4,000. From this the Winstons appealed to the appellate division, where the case was argued last March. The appellate division after holding the matter over, affirmed the award. Justices George F. Lyon and Henry T. Kellogg dissenting, whereupon the Winstons appealed to the court of appeals. The case was argued by Judge Clearwater for the Winstons and Deputy Attorney General E. C. Aiken for the industrial commission.

HARVEST RALLY SOCIAL EVENT

Garden Products of Kingston War Gardens to be Gathered at High School and Big Time Given in Programs and Competitions.

That the patriotic work of producing foods in the gardens of Kingston city may be made an effective object lesson to all citizens, two days and evenings, the 9th and the 10th of this month, are to be occupied with an exhibition of foods grown in this city and of foods that might have been grown perhaps more largely than they were grown where grown at all.

When foods are harvested they are devoured along from day to day or stored away for hungry occasions.

The exhibition on Wednesday and Thursday with two programs on each of these days, afternoon and evening, will show all who give their attention just how "never to go hungry."

Experts will unfold the secrets of preserving winter foods; how potatoes, carrots, parsnips, onions, cabbage, etc., should be stored away in dry and temperate cellars or in chambers in condition to keep foods best.

There will be exhibitions of canning fruits, vegetables, pickling and conserving.

But those are incidental phases of the occasion. The big thing that is to be done is to give Kingston a harvest festival, and a mighty good time, of jollification for the abundant production of foods, beyond any production of history of Kingston gardening.

The patriotic adults and children—the war garden youngsters and their daddies are to bring the fruits of their gardens to be laid together. Awards will then be made to the best and those meriting recognition. The children liberally treated.

The patriotic adults will also be rewarded. There will be classes in these exhibits. This taking stock of foods from home production will be intensely amusing, keenly entertaining and strongly educational.

Bright lights, stirring patriotic decorations put up by the senior class of the high school, an abundance of magnificent specimens of all kinds of harvested and smartly put up foods, music, Boy and Girl Scout programs, will fill the ground floor of the high school building on this occasion.

This will also be the social event of the season. The social lights of Kingston are behind this city's great war beneficences and activities for giving the government both financial and man power; and conserving foods.

The supply of foods by mobilizing the ready and willing patriots in the gardens was boosted along by the women and men who represent the best side of Kingston life.

Thirteen hundred gardens were listed and most of them inspected. One hundred and forty-seven children have produced exceptionally good gardens.

One hundred and sixty-one adults put in, cultivated and harvested in gardens for the first time.

These two days will give all visitors more to interest them than they can anticipate. The little Misses and the little Masters who bring along superb vegetables they have produced will include children of the best families and those of humble homes all of whom will receive equal attention. Adults and children will be richly rewarded where they have gained high standards in productions of their gardens.

On the ground floor with entrance at each end of the high school building the public will be free on the 9th and 10th to roam at will.

In the gymnasium they will find enough serviceable and interesting features to give anyone the best that can be given in such an exhibition.

There will be every branch of food production that was introduced in Kingston. The classified list under which awards are made show that the recognized varieties in this contest of war-farmers are numerous.

This list is not yet complete. There are some food products omitted. It will be published Monday.

Going through the gymnasium will be seen hutches and cages of small game for foods, rabbits and hares.

There will be booths put up and managed by the Farm Bureau, the county food conservation commission, the child welfare, the Ulster County Garden Club.

In the manual arts room visitors will be shown class work going on; and finished work.

In the cooking rooms domestic science will disclose much more than people imagine it possible in cooking, canning and pickling.

The sewing room will be equally informative of war work and that for other objectives.

All through the ground floor specimens of art work will be shown.

Then, too, where the arrangements may be made for at least one grand night affair, if not the two—for a public demonstration where the outpouring from city homes may find room and seats, it is probable that the high school auditorium may be opened to this very important rally of the junior agriculture extension work.

The committee who represents the Kingston Garden Club and who are laboring with zeal and closely in touch with many people who are workers in this line of war endeavor, are Mrs. Charles Tappen, representing the Garden Club, who is chairman of the committee, Prof. M. J. Michael, representing the board of education, and Sydney Hudson, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, Robert J. Service, director of industrial art in the city schools, is putting in mysterious activities simply to help entertain the crowds who will turn out.

Further announcement will appear Monday.

Anthony W. Dimock.
Mr. Dimock's death on September 11th, at his Peekamoose home was a shock to the mountain community among whom he had lived almost forty years. Long a Wall Street figure, he had been distinguished in the diverse fields of ocean steam shipping, in organizing the Bankers' and Merchants' Telegraph Co., and in the growth of Elizabeth, N. J., and his later years by many successful books. Thirty years ago his treacherous financial circulars had a poignant edge that delighted even those who disagreed with his criticisms. His later authorship was accompanied by exquisite illustrations through the photographic ingenuity of himself, and his son Julian, whose artistic work gained international fame. Business strain was varied by such severities as a night ride in freezing weather, on a hand-car to Riverhead to shoot ducks at Good Ground, a grizzly hunt in the Rockies, or a gallop with Comanche Indians, and later by the thrill of catching Florida Tarpon from a frail canoe. Every difficulty was borne with a gaiety that no hardships could daunt. Those unfailing spirits were natural—the outcome of a deep-seated and lasting optimism. But this fountain of hope and courage was fed and refreshed by his frequent retreats to the mountain wilderness about Peekamoose. The old Peekamoose Club, of which he was a founder, was at the head of the Rondout, then known to but few as an incomparable trout stream. The Lodge in the deep gorge was approached through a chasm that rivalled Colorado. When the club dissolved over twenty years ago Mr. Dimock removed further west, and built in the widening valley just beyond where Bear Hole Brook enters the Rondout. When later, fire destroyed his home with its books and photographic rarities, he at once rebuilt near that site a home for occupancy all the year where he received a wide circle of visitors. His joyous activity was best called forth by a bright group of young people who hung on his tales of adventure, and anecdotes of magnates of Wall street. Through gifted with graphic powers of description, as his Florida books attest, he steadfastly declined to write about his beloved valley or its streams. His zeal would lead him to stand long under a freezing spray from a winter cascade to get a time exposure by moonlight, when he was rewarded by exquisite results; but the views he took were never published. However, when he saw his "Happy Valley" after a heavy snow storm, with the tall fir bending from a snowfall, he broke his rule and let his pictures come out in an illustrated periodical with a lively tale of snow sports.

Responsive, as he was to every aspect of wild nature, his grand passion was for water, rather than for mountain crags or for the deeper forest. Whether casting into the blue depths along the Rondout, canoeing in Florida or yachting in the Caribbean, his keen enjoyment might take the words of St. Francis, "Praise God for our sister, the water." This temperament with his happy zest, always evincing a courageous joy of life, did not leave him at the end. As one of the earliest, if not the first to find a home in the fastnesses of the southern Catskills, his name should be identified with those surroundings. The old memento of Bear Hole Brook, he would never be changed. But the turn of the valley, where he lived last, might well be remembered called Dimock, to preserve his memory.

LIBERTY LOAN DRIVE FOR NEXT WEEK

The house committee are preparing for their campaign next week in the Liberty loan drive. The teams have all been organized with active and alert men and women and with captains who spell success. They will canvass all houses, hotels, boarding houses and offices, taking in everything not canvassed by the industrial or merchants' committees.

Everyone should be prepared to sign up for his or her limit. There are many women workers and there will be many women subscribers. Uncle Sam should be represented in every family with a bond of the Fourth Liberty Loan.

The captains of the Fourth and Eighth wards and of some of the other wards will meet with their workers tonight at the Y. M. C. A. at 8 o'clock for supplies, allocation and instruction. Any worker of any ward is invited to be present. There are some large posters at the headquarters at the Y. M. C. A. which ought to be working by being posted in public and conspicuous places. If any of the workers have a suitable place for one where it will be seen by the public they should utilize one for such purpose. Any worker who has not received his supplies should attend the meeting and receive them. The workers will use pads in keeping track of their respective subscriptions. Any worker not having any report sheets should get them before canvassing. The Liberty Loan is a permanent thing until after the war, and it is desired to keep a correct record of the canvass.

Our community has been allotted the quota of $5,000 and every one is asked to subscribe if they can so we can go "over the top" in the drive. The soldiers are giving their lives while we are only asked to lend our savings at 4 1/2 per cent interest. Money makes the ship go that carries supplies and munitions to our fighting men overseas. They cannot be built without money and ammunition, tanks, rifles, airplanes, clothing, food for our fighters are costing money, too. So lend the way they fight. Buy bonds to your utmost. Uncle Sam does not ask you to give a single penny. He simply asks you to lend him your money at good interest and his guarantee on his word of honor, a word that has never been broken, to pay back every penny you lend.

UNKNOWN MAN
COMMITTS SUICIDE

Friday afternoon an unknown man leaped into the Rondout creek near Rifton and was drowned. Just before he had jumped in the creek he had drunk part of a bottle filled with carbolic acid, and when the body was recovered later it was found that his lips and mouth were burned by the acid.

Two girl servants at the Dimick residence at Rifton saw the man standing near the creek and thought he was a fisherman. As they passed him they saw he was dressed in overalls. A minute or so later they heard a splash and saw the man in the creek. He came up twice and then sank. They hurried to the nearest telephone and called up Sheriff Smith's office. The sheriff and Seth Jocelyn jumped in an auto and hurried to the scene.

The body was later recovered and Coroner Kelly notified. Dr. Ross of Port Ewen examined the body. It was evident the man had decided to take his life. In his pocket was found a bottle of carbolic acid, while his mouth and lips were burned.

Up to noon today Coroner Kelly, who took charge of the body, had been unable to find anyone who identified it. The man was about 5 feet 8 inches in height, smooth face, slightly bald with hair cropped short and about 45 years of age. He wore no underclothing and was dressed in jumper and overalls. There was nothing to indicate who he was or where he came from.

MILTON.

Milton, Oct. 3.—The committee composed of the ministers of the four Protestant churches in Milton to decide about holding union meetings this winter for the conservation of fuel, was held at the Methodist parsonage last Sunday afternoon. No definite decision was reached and another meeting of the committee will be held on Tuesday, October 8. Rev. Hart S. Fuller, representing the Methodist Church, stated that the Methodist people had voted to support the union movement leaving the arrangement of details to the ministers of the several churches.

Mr. Fuller then read a letter which he had received from the United States Fuel Administration, as follows: "Your letter of the 23rd inst. in reference to the use of wood by churches has been received. The fuel administration regard it as excellent conservation of coal for heating, especially where it does not involve rail haul. If all the churches of the country would unite in using wood, it would save an enormous amount of coal. We certainly commend your action." Mr. Fuller stated that so far as he could see this letter very satisfactorily removes from the Methodist Church all perplexities concerning the details of a union movement. Since some of our members have generously donated wood for the winter's use, it will enable us to hold as usual our Sunday school and any other meetings not provided for by the union. But to promote the fraternal spirit in the churches we will gladly unite in the Sunday union services as contemplated by the committee whenever and wherever that service will be held. We also cordially throw open our doors to any and all of the other denominations who wish to unite with us on other occasions.

At Grange on Monday evening, October 7, the entertainers are Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Bond, Sr. Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Bond, Jr. Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Hopwood. Program: Roll call. My favorite apple. Paper, "The Value of Apples as Food." Raymond Vetter, "The Story of an Auto Ride." George P. Dillmore, vocal solo. Miss Madeline Hartshorn, question box; service the presentation.

Our people were saddened upon hearing of the death of Virgil Perkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Perkins. He had pneumonia and died at Camp Jackson, S. C., on Monday morning. Mrs. Perkins and daughter, Miss Daisy, had left on Sunday to go and see him.

Justice and Mrs. Northrup and Mrs. W. A. Northrup returned to Shokan on Wednesday. Upon the occasion of visiting his son, Madeline, at Princeton Station, Justice Northrup heard complaints from both private and officers that their rations were both poor and scant. Other complaints were found to be poor also. While they were quarantined they reported no sickness whatever in the camp, but with the scarcity of food and the fact that the guards after having served their 30 days in being on guard for six hours at a time were yet serving the same hours they were in condition to keep burning all the time. Upon their return to the camp the guards were told with great interest of the 1st Regiment of New York State Guards, and told him how he could get conditions at the camp. The colonel said he would make a trip to the camp on the next day. (That was all of those camps.)

SALVAGE FROM CITY ASH DUMPS

The Board of Public Works held a special meeting Friday afternoon to consider matters of importance. Mayor Canfield and Commissioners Trammann, Burgevin, Staples and Brigham were present, together with Superintendent Van Keuren and Secretary Linson.

Mayor Canfield brought up the proposition of screening the ashes at the dumps and of salvaging the old paper, cans, glass, leather and rubber and other materials collected by the city. He recommended that if a practicable scheme could be worked out, the city screen the ashes with a rotary ash screen and stated that the city should be able to obtain over eight tons per day of sieved coal which is worth from $4 to $5 per ton, and which would aid the fuel situation. In the same connection he recommended that the ordinance requiring all paper and other rubbish be separated from the ashes and placed in separate containers by the people be enforced, and that the materials that are salvageable be turned over to the salvage department of the Red Cross. The matter will be given special study and investigation during the week and a report made at a special meeting next Friday at the city hall.

The matter of permits for stands and other things upon the sidewalks was discussed and it was decided to invite all the fruit dealers and others who had filed applications or who may be interested, to attend a special meeting of the board at four o'clock on Friday next, when the matter will be decided.

The board took action on putting willite on Delaware avenue from Broadway to Hasbrouck avenue. The Automobile Blue Book gives Hasbrouck avenue as the official route through the city. This accounts for so many automobiles coming from the ferry turning up that street in passing through the city. The board in paying this block are following a plan of connecting the paved streets. The small block on Hasbrouck avenue between the Willite and the granite blocks will also be paved with Willite. The granite blocks have been laid on one side of Hasbrouck avenue and will be laid on the other side in the spring. With this block on Delaware avenue paved, there will be a continuous pavement of brick, Willite, granite blocks and Willite from the Strand to Broadway at Delaware. Dr. O'Meara has generously permitted the board to cut off the sharp corner at Delaware avenue and Broadway, which will add materially to the appearance and use of the street at that point.

The matter of placing willite on a block on Broadway was also discussed. The board did not take any action, but will probably have the brick pavement on the north side of Broadway, between Railroad avenue and Cornell street, taken up, the sand cushion taken out, the brick then laid on its side, and then have two inches of willite laid on the brick. The pavement is in very bad condition at this point. It is thought that no permanent pavement will be permitted next year. The board thinks it will be a good opportunity to test out willite as a possible solution of improving the condition of the brick pavement. They believe it will wear much better there than on a macadam base. It was reported that the paving of Foxhall avenue from the West Shore railroad tracks to Albany avenue, was progressing favorably. The board purchased a piece of land at the corner of Foxhall and Flatbush avenues two years ago and the street will be straightened at that point, which will be a very desirable improvement.
